IMPLICATIONS, OPPORTUNITIES, AND IMPACT OF FAMILY FIRST ON MONTANA

Join us to hear national speaker, Jeff Bormaster, discuss the Implications, Opportunities, and Impact of Family First Prevention Services Act on Montana.

Implementing the Family First Act in Montana will affect many stakeholders, including former and current foster youth, foster families, child welfare providers, tribal governments, local lawmakers, state officials and other community partners. The State anticipates the Act will be fully operational by October 2021 or earlier.

Jeff Bormaster, L.C.S.W. provides consulting and training to public and private, non-profit and for-profits on organizational improvement, strategic planning, accountability and maximizing organizational success.

He is the developer of the evidenced-based supervision course, Supervision for Success and publishes a monthly newsletter for organizational leaders called "Leading Outside the Box."

Jeff Bormaster, L.C.S.W.

He was the Senior Director for Special Projects and Training at Child Welfare League of America (CWLA) for over a decade. He has taught at the University level and published several books for helping professionals. His newest book, Supervision for Success, was published in April 2016 and is available from Amazon.com.

Before working at CWLA, he worked for human services agencies providing a wide range of services including out-of-home care (group home, residential and foster care), family preservation services, outpatient mental health, substance abuse treatment, and adoption. He began his career as a schoolteacher, school principal and worked for the Texas Department of Education providing school improvement services for over a decade.
